OUR CONSULS ABROAD. - General Frederick A Starring has been on a foreign tour of inspection. His special duties under the appointment of President Grant were to investigate the condition of the United States Consulates in the different cities of Europe. As might have been expected, he has reported much ignorance among the Consuls, both of the language of the countries to which they were accredited, and of the requirements of the office they were deputed to fill. He has also discovered that if the consular salaries are small, the consular fees are so generally stetched beyond their legal limits that he knows of "but two consulates" in Europe where an overcharge is not made. He reports further that searcely any of the ar chives of the different consulates have been properly taken care of. "In some places they "have been partially lost and destroyed, and
"in one place they were mutilated by cutting "out signatures from dispatches and letters to "make a collection of autographs." But these are trifles to what follows. General Starring as serts that quantities of goods are sent from these consular cities to the United States, which, by under valuation, false representation and other frauds have defrauded the General Government to the extent of millions. A person qualified to judge expressed to him the opinion "that the United States was "defrauded to the amount of nine "millions of dollars | And Dealer in fine TEAS, WINES, LIQUORS annually from the district of Lyons alone.'

A GREAT TRADE IN HORNS. - The Boston Commercial Bulletin of Saturday says;

"A cargo of horns was landed on one of our wharves this week direct from California. The number received into Boston annually is immense, and they come from very distant lands. South America sends the bulk of them, though many come from Texas, and not a few from California. The last lot received numbered 27,500. They are mostly ox horns, and are very large. Some buffalo horns are received from Asia, but in small quantities. There is quite a speculative business done in these articles, and they are put to very many uses unknown to most of our readers. A short distance from Boston is the factory where these are all sent, and at that place they undergo a chemical change, by which they are transformed into many articles which are both useful and ornamental--combs, knife handles, paper cutters and buttons. Besides these, they are now making a great variety of parlor ornaments, and piles of jewelry, some of which is very elegant in its designs. They have a preparation that changes horn into nearly every color, and much of this jewelry, bought cheap for pure rubber, is made from ox horns and colored.

THE St. DOMINGO JOB .- The Samana Bay topic is being illuminated by the text of a recent loan from Hartmont & Co., of London. presented in its relations to the question of the Dominican debt, and the hypothecation of a part of the property thought to belong to the United States. This Hartmont loan was effeeted about the time of Mr. Fabens's visit to BOOK BINDING AND PAPER RULING. St. Domingo in the interest of the United States. Fabens, it will be remembered, reported to Mr. Seward that the total Dominican debt was only $600,000. The contract for the Hartmont loan was made immediately thereafter, but it was kept a profound secret for six months, and is only now generally known. The loan was for £420,000, to secure which the Dominican government mortgages upon the coal mines and woods belonging to the State in the l'eninsula of Samana, as also upon the duties which shall come into the treasury for the exportation of guano from the Isle of Alta Vela, the working of these mines and the control of the woods and guano having been conceded already to the Senores Hartmont & Co. - Balt.

HEROISM OF A YOUNG LADY. - Eunice Redman, the daughter of a Jackson county farmer, was awakened the other night by a peculiar noise under her chamber window. Peering out, she saw a man slowly ascending a ladder which he had placed in position with the evident intention of entering her apartment. Being a young lady of spirit and resolution, she instantly decided on her course of action .-Keeping out of sight and very quiet until the man was some fitteen feet from the ground, she leaned out, grasped the top of the ladder and instantly threw it over. The fellow gave a yell of horror which awoke the male members of the family, who, on rushing to the scene of the midnight disturbance, captured a stranger with a broken leg, and baving on his person sundry burglars' tools and deadly weapons. N. Y. Telegram.

THE ANCIENT ROMANS.—The Romans had neither rum, nor gin, nor whiskey, nor brandy; they had neither eigars, nor pipes, nor snuff, and tobacco was as unknown to them as Terra del Fuego; they were unacquainted with the boop, the revolver, the habeas corpus, and the Eric railroad; they were destitute of daily newspapers, monthly magazines, quarterly reviews, electric telegraphs, and steamboats;
